—A Fortress Monroe dispatch says the most gratifying reports have already been received from the counties and recistration districts of this State south of the James river, which furnish conclusive evidence of the conciliatory manner in which the inhabitants are receiving the registering officers and assisting them in the preliminary measures of the reconstruction bill. This feeling among the people is general, and even those disqualified by the bill have, in many cases, proffered their assistance, and impressed upon their neighbors the actual necessity and policy of non-interference with the registration of the duly qualified voters. The utmost good feeling exists towards the colored people, now that the question of their suffrage is no longer unsettled. The education of the negro, and their moral and social elevation, is now acknowledged to be a duty incumbent on all the people, and is the only proper and judicious means which will advance the interests of both classes, and promote the prosperity of the entire State. Capitalists and land owners are beginning to see the prime virtue of creating modes of employment for the negroes, and are offering them lands on favorable terms, and furnishing them with agricultural implements and materials.

—A local says, the appointment by Judge Scott, of Baltimore, of the notorious Ex-Commodore Hollins, of the rebel army, as Crier of his Court, an office worth five thousand a year, and bailiffs and subordinates of the same antecedents, has given much dissatisfaction to many home democrats, hundreds of whom expected appointments. It has also stirred up the loyal citizens considerably, and makes the radicals more determined in accomplishing their ends.

—Acherman's Velocipede manufactury, in Philadelphia, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. Loss $15,000.

—Watts, Crousa & Co., New York Cotton Brokers, have failed to the extent of $100,000.

Accident at the Lindell Hotel Ruins—Meeting of Master Mechanics, Manufacturers and Contractors—Severe Action—Death of a Congressman—Steamboat Statistics—Indian Intelligence—The Fort Riley Board.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—The planks supporting a derrick on the scaffold in front of the Lindell Hotel, used in taking down the walls of the burned building to-day, broke and precipitated four men from the fifth story to the pavement, instantly killing John Mc'Spritle, fatally wounding Geo. Nicholas, and badly hurting two others.

A meeting of master mechanics, manufacturers and contractors adopted resolutions opposing the eight hour system, and declaring they will not employ or submit their work to any journeyman who refuses to ignore and employ their men by the ten hour rule. They also agreed not to hire men belonging to societies organized for the purpose of interfering with the free will of master mechanics or any men they may employ, and appointed a committee to engage a permanent agent of employing mechanics, contractors and manufacturers to protect the freedom of labor and mechanical genius of the St. Louis.

The number of steamboat arrivals at this port for the year ending to-day were three thousand six hundred and twenty, carrying one million fifty-two thousand three hundred and eighty-one.

Hon. Samuel S. Marshall, Congressman from the Eleventh District, Illinois, died at his residence, in McLens borough, a few days ago.

The Democrat's correspondent with the Indian expedition says General Hancock had not crossed Arkansas river into the Indian country, in consequence of the absence of General Custar's cavalry, the most effective part of his force, and will soon start for Fort Hays, thence to Fort Hooker, where the expedition will be terminated, when the force consisting in part is sent to Forts Lyon, Dodge, Larned and Hays. A new fort will be built at Monument Station and an efficient garrison stationed there. A council with several Arrapaho chiefs, at Fort Dodge on the 28th ult., resulted in a declaration for peace on the part of the Indians, and a promise to return twenty-five mules taken from Put-in encampment. The Kiowas, below the Arkansas, manifested a restless and defiant attitude.

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—The Democrat's Omaha special says a gentleman arrived at General Augur's headquarters to-day, from Fort Buford, April 16th, who stamps the massacre story a base fabrication.

The fact that the Chinese Sparrow, on Union Square is soon to be closed, is already widely known; and the following particulars will interest many persons in and out of our city:

That church was built on leased land; the lease expired on the last inst., and the charge upon renewal was $10,000 per annum. This sum would overtax the society's pecuniary ability. Hence, its edifice and right to a renewal have been sold to Tiffany & Co. for $70,000; out of which every dollar of the society has been paid, including the heavy arrears of salary due to the pastor, which amounted to $12,000. The Observer has thus closed his long, earnest, fearless struggle in our city for the rights of humanity in better remembrance, we judge, than ever before. We have sometimes thought that, had he been a trifle less acrid and vehement, he might have been more useful; but he has done a noble work among us, holding far advanced the standard of Justice and Liberty when nearly every other voice was mute or faltering. The blessings of the emancipated will follow him into whatever effort may be his future sphere.

American Medical Convention—Banquet—Delegates Entertained by Hon. G. H. Pendleton.

CINCINNATI, May 8.—A banquet was given to the delegates of the Medical Convention, at Melodeon Hall, last night. Mayor Wilstach, in a speech, tendered the hospitalities of the City. Toasts were drank and appropriate responses made.

The afternoon at the Convention this morning was very large, but no business of importance was transacted. By invitation of Hon. George H. Pendleton, the delegation visited his residence, at Clifton, this afternoon, where they were magnificently entertained. The entertainment continued until a late hour to the entire satisfaction of all present.

—EX-GOV. Brown of Georgia told the people in his recent speech at Augusta, "We submit to it, or fight. If you don't intend to fight, why sit here and growl, and find fault with the decrees of Providence? You claim the protection of the Government. In claiming that protection, is it honorable in you to be its enemy. In peace we should be friends. If you want Northern capital to aid development, you must invite it, and in doing so, treat those whom you invite as your friends. You must look at things as they now are. Your old institutions are gone. Slavery is abolished. Start out anew You must accommodate yourselves to the new order of things."

Expedition to Ascertain the Fate of Dr. Livingstone—The Tailors' Strike —50,000 Persons Thrown Out of Employment—Legislature and the Luxemburg Question—Victoria's Letter to the King of Prussia—Prussian Affairs—Daily Diminishing—Extraordinary Vigor of War Preparations—Just a Probability of Peace.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 8.—The China's mails arrived late to-night with London papers to the 27th.

A small expedition is to be dispatched for Africa to learn the fate of Dr. Livingstone. A small iron steamer has been taken from the Government yards by Dr. Livingstone.

Nearly all the tailor shops are now closed, and thirty thousand men have thrown themselves out of employment.

It is believed in Paris that Jules Favre's demand for leave to question the Government on the Luxemburg question would not be allowed in the legislative body.

The Memorial Diplomatique says it is believed in diplomatic circles in Vienna that the Duke of Cobourg will be supported by Austria in his efforts to disseminate democratic ideas.

J. N. M'Clowry, Esq., moved an amendment, suggesting that the Post advocate fusion. Not entertained.

The resolution was adopted.

John Quinn, of the Third ward, offered a resolution instructing the delegates to vote for Hon. Walter H. Lowrie for Supreme Judge.

Mr. Delegate suggested that Mr. Quinn must have been reposing; such a resolution had already been adopted.

Mr. Quinn—My resolution differs from the other; it is "more stronger."

The resolution was laid on the table.

R. C. Sproull, Esq., offered the following, which were adopted:

Resolved, That it becomes constantly more evident with the advance of time that the only proper cure for the great and growing evils of the country, is the restoration of the Democratic party to power.

Resolved, That the cry of suffering from famine, which reaches us from the southern country, calls aloud for a prompt and earnest response from every friend of humanity.

Mr. J. N. McClowry offered a resolution, which Secretary Barr proceeded to read:

Resolved, That we condemn the action—

John O'Conner—I object to the reading of the resolution.

Mr. Lindsay also object, as it is an unjust reflection upon the action of the last Convention.

J. S. Murray—I move we adjourn.

Several delegates moved to adjourn.

Alderman Strain—In order to put an end to the confusion, I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

The Chairman put the motion to adjourn, which was unanimously carried.

Following is Mr. McClowry's fire brand:

Resolved, That we condemn the action of the last Convention, assembled at the call of General G. W. Cass, in surrendering the time-honored name of the Democratic party and coalescing with factionists, the result of which reason was the polling of only thirteen votes more than the square old Democracy polled in the contest for Auditor General candidate for Governor, Hon. George W. Woodward.

Previous to the offering of this resolution, Rev. W. D. Moore, by request, delivered a brief address, the burden of which was that the country was going to ruin under the rule of the Republicans, and that the only remedy was the elevation to power of the Democratic party. [Rev. M. was cut short in his speech, the clock indicating an hour at which his duties required him to be in the U. S. Court. Rev. M. is Assistant District Attorney, which position he has acquired through adherence to Cowan and Johnson.]

—Taking a retrospect of the assemblage, we saw many familiar faces, ever present on the occasion of Democratic conventions. One face, more familiar than all the rest, a voice as loud as the loudest, as irrepressible in conflict with others as the elements, was there. And in pursuing the proceedings his absence cannot but be noticed, as much so as if we were to append an "N. B." to the effect that owing to the indisposition (we suppose) of R. H. Kerr, Esq., generally known as "Resolution Kerr," the usual formality of a "committee on resolutions" and the "adoption of the report as read by the chairman," was dispensed with.

"Oh! Benton, we have missed you."

A Golden Wedding.

WILLIAM DILWORTH and ELIZABETH SCOTT celebrated yesterday afternoon and evening, at their residence, at Mount Washington, near this city, the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. A numerous company of children, grand-children, great-grandchildren, other relatives and friends honored the occasion with their presence. This concourse was in its character, not less than in its numbers, a fitting commentary on the exemplary lives of our friends. Besides a long retinue of relatives and friends, we noticed among the guests gentlemen and ladies from all the classes of respectable society, and from all the professions and callings; the Pulpit, the Bench and Bar had many representatives; quite a few of manufacturers and merchants, and many young people, the descendants of neighbors and friends endeared to the Dilworth family by long and intimate social intercourse. We have ourselves been contemporary with and personally acquainted with Mr. D. for forty years, and concur with the many whom we heard remark that they had never heard an imputation against the morals or integrity of William Dilworth. The meeting of all these friends brought up again many pleasant memories of past times and incidents.

We cordially and sincerely congratulate our aged friends on the crowning earthly glory of their well spent life in their numerous descendants, every individual of whom that is old enough to have established any character has earned a high position in our business and social circles. None in the community have been more prosperous, or more successful. They are ornaments of society and have made their mark among our men of enterprise, public and private.

After the company had assembled, the Rev. Mr. Scoville, of the First Presbyterian Church, made an appropriate address, and the Rev. Dr. Howards, of the Second Presbyterian Church, offered a fervent prayer.

An elegant collation awaited the guests, and a band was in attendance.

Mr. Dilworth was born in Lancaster county, and is 75 years of age the present month. At the age of six years he came to this country with his parents. This city was then a hamlet, containing only two stores. In 1812 he enlisted for the defence of the county, and marched to Sandusky under Gen. Harrison. Fifty years ago he was married to Miss Elizabeth Scott, daughter of Col. Samuel Scott, of Ross township. That same day the newly married couple took up their abode in their present residence, which has been their abode ever since. In 1817 he superintended the building of the first Monongahela bridge, and in 1819 the construction of the bridge over the Allegheny. He was also concerned in the erection of the original Water Works, at the foot of Cecil alley. In connection with Mr. Joseph Coltart, in 1834, he superintended the erection of the present Court House; and in the fall of the same year was chosen a member of the Legislature.

The Bank Robbery in Canonsburg—Charge of Burglary Preferred by the Cashier.

The Cashier of the Farmers' Deposit Bank of Canonsburg made an information, on Monday last, before Justice Smith, of Washington county, charging Bob Matthews, a well known character of this city, with burglary. The Cashier, from information at hand, has reason to suspect that Bob had something to do with the late robbery of the Banking House, and accordingly made the information as stated. The warrant was countersigned by Alderman Strain, of this city, who happened to be in Washington on Monday last, and placed in the hands of officer Wilmot, who, on his arrival in this city, took Matthews to the county jail, awaiting trial on a charge of counterfeiting. There will, in all probability, be enough of charges against Bob to give him some difficulty in clearing himself from.

Masonic Hall—A Splendid Present for Somebody.

The Apocalypse Exhibition and Visions of Saint John will remain at Masonic Hall just three days longer. Exhibitions will be given every afternoon and night these last three days. About six hundred handsome presents will be given away free to the audience of those exhibitions, among which is a splendid seven octave Chickering Piano, valued at five hundred dollars. These presents are given away to encourage the entertainment, and whoever receives the piano must contract to tell at least one hundred tickets at $1 each, in advance of the exhibition and its merits. In fact it will be left as a memento among the people to remember the great work of art by, as we learn a return trip will be made in September next. Go and see the Visions of Saint John these last three days, and that without fail.

He was removed to his residence where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Thos. Rhodes. The injuries, although severe, are not of a serious character.

THE COURTS.

United States District Court.

Before Hon. Wilson McCandless.

Court opened at ten o'clock on Wednesday.

The Grand Jury returned the following Indictments:

United States vs. Albert Glacknor. Indictment, taking a letter out of the Pittsburgh Postoffice and opening, secreting and embezzeling the same.

United States vs. Gibson Hughes and Scott Smith. Indictment, robbing the mail.

The case of Samuel Weil alias Goldman Weil, was proceeded with, Josiah Cohen, Esq., appearing as counsel of the defendant, District Attorney Carnahan acting for the United States.

It appeared from the developments made that the accused was engaged in counterfeiting, making and passing, as a regular business; that he was an agent in this city of an association which has its ramifications in several places of the United States. After a short deliberation, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Sentence deferred.

The case of Gilson Hughes and Scott Smith was called up, District Attorney Carnahan appearing for the United States; Thomas J. Keenan, Esq., for the defendants. In February last the postmaster of Kittanning received complaints that some letters containing money and addressed to several parties had not reached their destination. In investigating the matter the postmaster and a Justice of the locality discovered that the money, $441.50, had been abstracted from the letters by the defendants, who are youths of about fifteen years of age. Scott Smith being engaged at that time as mail carrier from Kittanning to Punxsutawney.

After hearing the testimony of the postmaster and several other witnesses, the Court adjourned till to-day at ten o'clock.

Trial List for Thursday.

DISTRICT COURT.

Best Machine in the United States.

Improved Weed Lock Stitch Sewing Machine. It makes a stitch alike on both sides; it possesses a tension of superior merit, by which the operator is enabled to sew from the thinnest to the thickest substances, and over seams and irregular or uneven surfaces without readjusting it, and will pass over seams without breaking the needle or drawing the stitches or breaking the thread, at full speed; it will do all kinds of family sewing and tailoring on the same machine. Its working parts are constructed of steel, and it is the cheapest machine by twenty per cent. in use, and will sew faster. It is not superior to any machine in the market, he can return it and have his money. Warranted for four years.

Agents wanted. H. H. LOSS, Agent,
No. 112 Grant street.

Election of Officers.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Sharpsburg and Lawrenceville Bridge Company, held a day or two since, the following gentlemen were elected as officers to serve the ensuing year: President, James M. Lewis; Directors, James Saint, C. P. Herron, W. M. Darlington, Robert Dalzell, Jno. W. Chalfant, Wilson Henry.

False Pretenses.—David McKelvy made information yesterday before Alderman Mullen against John Andrews, charging him with false pretenses. Prosecutor alleges that Andrews sold him a house lately, which he represented as a sound and good workmanlike house, but which came to harm him up, he would not pull any, and further, that defendant refused to make good his loss to him in any way. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the defendant.

Soldiers' Monument.—The Soldiers Monument Association will hold a meeting this afternoon at two o'clock, in City Hall, when it is expected to make final disposition of the Fund. In view of this, it is important that members, as well as all interested, be present. Committees are especially requested to be present, report progress, and make arrangements to bring their work to a close.

Allegheny Councils.—Through the politeness of D. Macferron, Esq., Clerk of the Select Council, Allegheny, we are informed that a stated meeting of that body will be held to-night.

That Beautiful Sign Window, which attracts so much attention at the new stand of John F. Cluley, House and Sign Painter, No 151 Smithfield street, and which we noticed yesterday, was not the exclusive work of Mr. Gardner, as stated. That gentleman executed the fine lettering, while Mr. W. H. Harris performed the exquisite and highly artistic decorative work which surrounds the lettering. We make this correction on our own motion, desiring that proper credit be given Mr. Harris for his share of honor in the production, as he has long been identified as an artist of no ordinary abilities, having few equals in this country, in his particular line of business. He has for a number of years been identified with the establishment of Mr. Cluley, with which he is now connected.

Alderman McMasters yesterday took the information of John Klein, now confined in the county jail, awaiting trial on a charge of larceny, against Philip Pastre for assault and battery. John alleges that he went into a public house in Allegheny, of which Pastre is proprietor, on the 25th of last month, and was assaulted and beaten by said Pastre, but that being ar

CONSERVATISM.

The Conservatives of Tennessee recently assembled in State Convention at Nashville. Naturally enough, a majority of the delegates were rebels, whose disloyalty was so conspicuous as to disfranchise them under the laws. Of course, they were stoutly opposed to all vigorous or violent measures on the part of the national government and its supporters. If they had only been allowed, as they desired, a monopoly of harsh proceedings; if they had been permitted to make war on the public authorities, without having war made on them; if they had been suffered to spurn and repudiate the Constitution, instead of being constrained to submit to its revision and enforcement; if they had been tolerated in the wildest views and the most lawless conduct, to the extent of setting up a hopeless and perpetual despotism over millions of the native inhabitants of the country; their ideas of conservatism would have been fulfilled. For, the fact stands out in the history of this country, as of all others, that a Conservative is necessarily a Fanatic, not of the present, nor of the future, but of the past. Go back through the ages, and everywhere you find him at the congenial employment of building bastiles, working thumb screws, hot pinchers and racks, and lighting the fires of autodafees. At frequent intervals, he plies the trade of framing penal statutes designed to furnish him with victims; to stop the development of new ideas in science, morals and religion; and to prevent darkness from being intruded upon by light. PAUL, before he was inoculated with the "pestilent heresy," was one of such; but he was quite another man after he became a radical. Then he was vitalized with human sympathies, and gave the world an impulse forward which it feels and responds to even now.

Mr. ELIJAH WALKER, of Harding county, was made President of this State Convention. He was vouched for by the gentleman who nominated him as "loyal" all through the great struggle. But his account of himself did not sustain this encomium. He made it a matter of congratulation that he had never before taken any part in political affairs. He was in Tennessee during all the agitations that preceded and attended the rebellion. He witnessed the attempt to take that State out of the Union; but his patriotism was of so placid a kind as not to be excited to resistance. He saw deadly blows aimed at the vitals of the government, and made no efforts to ward them off. He saw treason rearing heads on every side and hissing its hate at the Union, and conspiring its overthrow; but he was too eminently conservative to meddle with politics. He stood by, at best an unconcerned spectator, while great crimes against law and order were perpetuated; and was too dignified or too consenting to interpose to prevent the continuance of the wrong. Only when the government gets the upper-hands of the criminals, and proposes to subject some of them to moderate and compassionate discipline, does he get excited, and allow his feelings to betray which side he was on all the while. He was not afraid DAVIS, LEE and JOHNSON would do violence to the national constitution or its defenders, but his fears are wonderful that the republican majority in Congress will touch that great instrument irreverently, with at least the tips of their fingers. This is genuine conservatism; only of a mild type.

Mr. DORSEY B. THOMAS, of Maury county, was a more advanced specimen. He did not conceal that he was a rebel; and maintained that people who believed in secession had a right to favor it. He forgot that by parity of reasoning they who believe in coercion have a right to favor it, especially when the Constitution and laws are clearly on their side; and that having effectually coerced the rebels they have acquired all the rights of conquerors in addition to what they had before. When men of sense appeal to the sword, invoking the God of Battles to decide, they comprehend they have taken their case out of the Judicial Department, and that if they fail it is unmanly to whine and seek to avoid the consequences of the arbitrament they challenged.

Following the latest Conservative fashion this Convention was supplied with a negro orator. He was fitly chosen in point of intellectual qualifications, for he is represented as both illiterate and stupid. On the patriotic side an outfit for the service demanded of him was equally appropriate; for he had deserted from the Union army in the face of the enemy and had received the most degrading punishment. It is farther known that he had served three years in one of the Pennsylvanin penitentiaries. Whether he obtained that experience in consequence of conservative indulgence, or an unaccountable perversion of radicalism, no data is furnished for determining.

The whole drift of the speeches was in denunciation of the government, first for having resisted the rebels, and afterwards, for not taking them to its arms as entitled to the highest confidence and promotion.

Now, it must be admitted the Conservatives are in an unpleasant situation. They indulged high expectations of immense and substantial achievements, in founding a government of their own, that should not simply subordinate radicalism, but exclude it. Under this government there was to be no new and disturbing ideas; no discussion and revision of old habits; no reaching forward to a better condition of society. They failed miserably, and now claim the prerogative, as sufferers, to chafe and grumble. If they would only stop there, a decided disposition would be disclosed to indulge the dolor. Only when in defeat they assume the port of conquerors, and presume to dictate what shall and what shall not be done; do their lamentations and captiousness become seriously offensive.

THE Post informs the public that the GAZETTE charged for advertising the Southern Relief Movement in this city. In reply we have to state that the advertisements in question were sent to this office from the Post, with instructions to charge that establishment.

If the Post had evinced half the zeal to put down the rebellion it has displayed to relieve Southern destitution, there would be less suffering in that section demanding aid. Its present zeal leads to the inference that it seeks rather to subserve some business or political end of its own than to give vent to its superabounding benevolence.

It seems probable that Judge SHARSWOOD, of Philadelphia, will be the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge,

REPUBLICAN PARTY AT THE SOUTH.

It will be remembered that soon after Mr. H. G. RAYMOND, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, joined President JOHNSON in his scheme to break up that organization, the Republican members of Congress designated a new National Committee. This latter body has entered in earnest upon the work of organizing the Republican party throughout the Southern States. It does not confine its efforts to correspondence with here and there an individual, and the circulation of documents among such as are supposed to be favorable to the enterprise, but is giving much attention to organizing numerous subordinate agencies, to providing for public meetings and to sending representative northern men to address the people.

Mr. H. W. WILSON went South some days ago, under the auspices of this Committee, and was followed by Mr. WM. D. KELLEY and Mr. J. W. NYE. While neither of these gentlemen possess talents of the highest order, they are justly entitled to rank among the truly representative men of the republican persuasion, for they have not only been in the advanced rank, but have maintained a rare steadiness and consistency. WILSON and KELLEY are widely reputed throughout the South. NYE, though less known, is decidedly superior to either of them, in tact, versality and brilliance, as a rostrum speaker.

So far, we do not think Mr. WILSON'S Southern speeches have been successful. Whether he was piqued by the abstention of the leading whites from meetings he was announced to attend, or unconsciously allowed somewhat of the bitterness of old controversies to re-appear, it is not safe to decide; but an under-tone of superiority was allowed to run through his discourses which good taste should have led him to suppress. He represents the victorious party in the great controversy, which has signalized its magnanimity beyond all parallel in history, whatever its opponents may say to the contrary. That party has imposed conditions, lenient in their nature, but which necessarily gall those who are required to comply therewith, when they had hoped, through bad advice and deceitful promises, to have no exactions laid on them. As that party has been magnanimous, and means so to be to the end, it would be well to have it so reported by the manners and bearing of its agents. Parties must and will be formed anew at the South. Organizations cannot long survive the issues upon which they are founded. At the South the past has been literally swept out. In individual minds many of the former states of feeling remain, and will be more or less controlling for short periods. But the new facts will assert their claims and speedily range men into parties in accordance therewith. Because a man was a Democrat under the pro-slavery regime, it does not follow he will remain one now that slavery has dissolved, and universal freedom been established. After a little, when the Southern States shall have resumed their places in the Union, and the advantages of the new status shall appear, great mutations will arise in Southern political circles. What we insist is that Republicans sent on popular embassies into that section should so carry themselves as to quicken those mutations.

NIGHT WORK is reputed to be prejudicial to health. The N. Y. Tribune, in announcing the retirement of Mr. D. P. RHOADES from that concern, says:

"His connection with THE TRIBUNE, dates from the first number of the paper, April 10, 1841, and since that time he has been in charge of the distribution of its editions, attending to the demands of agents and carriers, and sending off express bundles—a difficult and important duty, which required him to be in the publication-office at 9 p. m., and to remain until the entire edition of the paper had been delivered in the morning. With the exception of two years employed in the composing-room, Mr. Rhoades has been absent from his post but six nights in 26 years, and not once from sickness."

This goes to show that regularity of habits is of more importance than that rest should be taken during the darkness of night.

THE operations of the gang of Kentucky "Regulators" to which our telegrams referred in brief terms a few days since, are faithfully detailed in a correspondence published on our third page.

Our New Possessions—Russian America.

The following article, translated from the Cologne Gazette, probably gives as intelligent and dispassionate an account of the territory as can now be presented:

If the cession of the whole of Russian America to the United States is ratified, it will be a very important event: not because the acquisition of a large tract of land by the United States promises an increase of power; for territorial extension is not desirable, and Russian America is no paradise; yet it may prove an eldorado in furs, and its situation on the North west coast of the Continent will be of great significance. The territory is 11,500 (German) square miles in area, lying on the north-west slope of the Rocky Mountains; has many snow-peaks and volcanoes, and is densely wooded in the valleys, and on the rivers and inlets of the coast with pine. The coast has many harbors shut in by the Prince of Wales and George III's Archipelagoes. The Kossack Deschneff first discovered Behring's Straits, which were explored by Behring years afterward, and received his name. The volcanoes are generally very high, and streams are abundant, though unenumerated. The climate is very diversified, and much milder than between the same parallels on the eastern coast of America or Eastern Asia. The coast as far as the peninsula of Alaska, has mild Winters and cool Summers, with abundant rains, very favorable to vegetation; but fruit trees do not prosper. There are scarcely 700 Russians among the 70,000 inhabitants, just one to a hundred; 1,500 are half-breeds of Russians and Indians. Only 15,000 Indians are civilized, and the rest are scattered over the vast region. Aleyt Indians inhabit the eastern half of Alaska, and there are about 2,300 Alcots in the eastern portion; they also inhabit the islands of their name. The seat of government of the country is New Archangel, containing 2,300 inhabitants. Twenty-five years ago, it had not a population of more than 800 souls. The timber and furs of the country became very useful when the Russians settled on the Amoor; up to that time, it was more of a burden than a blessing. For America, the case is quite different. This purchase annexes the middle portion, on the west of the British auriferous region, that Switzerland has long regarded with a covetous eye. The north western coast of America is on the regular course of commerce. This will now change, and the year 1867 will be the beginning of a new era for it.

About the middle of January, the Colorado arrived at Shanghai from San Francisco to open a regular trade across the Pacific, and the steamer Great Republic, of 4,50 tuns, is soon to follow. The telegraph company reports the line already laid as far as New Westminister, the capital of British Columbia.

Steamships and telegraph lines will unite those distant regions to the civilized world and give them new life; and lands that were once sealed desert wastes will become mines of untold wealth to a perseveringand industrious race of people. But the greatest good of this treaty—far more important than the acquisition of territory—is the winning of a cordial good understanding between the two enlightened nations of the northern hemisphere. The friendly relations between Petersburg and Washington will, hoping for a dissolution of the American Union, is speculating upon the establishment of a throne in the Western World. The French, therefore, have been to see this friendly feeling increase, and compensated for this loss. Russia is to be well satisfied that the United States afford. They have no possessions in the Old World; but they have abundant means, quite enough to make an offensive and defensive Alliance, and such trifles, of immense importance to the Czar. Now that Russia is casting a longing look on Western Asia, her sovereign is conscious of the importance of a friendly union with a mighty naval power on the Western Continent.

For these reasons the negotiations in Washington are watched with great anxiety by France and England.

As Prussia has a good understanding with the United States, as well as Russia has, this entente cordiale between Washington and Petersburgh, in case of war in Europe, may be more beneficial than detrimental to the cause of Germany.

GENERAL NEWS.

—A boy of fifteen, in Montreal, has married his brother's mother-in-law, aged fifty.

—The Democrats of Indiana and Illinois, urge the claims of Senator Hendricks of Indiana, for the next Democratic nomination to the Presidency.

—Three young men, traveling agents, or "drummers" as they are called, connected with Boston and New York houses, have been arrested for alleged connection with the murder of the man Fitzgibbens, at Montpelier, Vt., last Wednesday evening.

—A Washington correspondent of a New York daily says: "The reports for some time in circulation that General Steadman, of Freedmen's Bureau notoriety, is willing to enter into full fellowship with the Republican party, are thought by some persons to find confirmation in the fact that in his capacity as collector of New Orleans he has made appointments entirely satisfactory to the Radicals of that city.

—Louis Napoleon's present position is thus stated by a London Journal: "Ordered out of Mexico, defeated at Nickolsburg, defied in schleswig, resisted in Luxemburg, abused in Auxerre, with no liberties to offer to France and new sacrifices to demand from his people, the Emperor, to keep his seat, must accomplish some great thing. His claim to reign is success, and in Mexico and Germany, at home and abroad, he has of late been unsuccessful."

—After Herschel V. Johnson had addressed a recent political meeting in Georgia, a colored brother put the case to him personally in this style: "If Gov. Johnson is really your friend, and wishes to see all the people prosper, why don't he accept the reconstruction and supplemental bills? There is a reason that he should be thankful that he has the privilege of coming here to-day to speak to you and to advise you. He has reason to be thankful because he has not been hung."

—The present Duke of Wellington is said to have reduced his income by extravagant expenditures from seven hundred and fifty thousand to seventy-five hundred dollars a year. He has a good excuse. His only brother, Lord Charles Wellesley, is a hopeless lunatic, and he himself, as the consequence of a drunken frolic, at Constantinople—a point of fact a midnight raid upon the Sultan's seraglio—was the victim of a fate which precludes the possibility of his transmitting name or fortune to posterity.

—Robert W. Hughes, of Abingdon, Va., one of the most polished writers of the South, once a preeminent secessionist, and editor of The Richmond Examiner during the war, declares himself on the present political position in these words: "I avow a radical change of opinion on many leading points of politics. More especially am I wearied of the practice which the South has pursued from the beginning of this great and eventful controversy of sacrificing attainable good, attainable right, attainable justice, for a good, a right, a justice for the most part abstract, intangible, and of doubtful value."

CONSUMPTION.—This Scourge of humanity, bane of civil zation, with despotic sway has insinuated itself into all climates, grades and conditions of life. Neither age, sex or rank are exempt from its ravages. Itsley hand falls alike upon youthful innocence and hoary hairs and age. Some of the prominent symptoms are Cough Expectoration, Shortness of Breath, Pain or Pain about the Lungs and Chest, Darting Pains in the Side and Back, Emaciation and a general negative condition of the whole system. It is authentically stated that one-fifth of the inhabitants of this country and Europe die of Consumption. No disease has been more thoroughly studied, and its nature less understood; there is no disease upon which exists a greater diversity of opinion, and no disease which has more completely baffled all medical skill and remedial agencies. Persons suffering from this dread disease or any of its concomitants, should at once procure and possessing themselves of the proper Remedy, hesitate that they may stay its ravages, and be restored to health.

The Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON'S FREPARED PREPARATION for the cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Throat and Lung Affections, has been in use over 19 years with the most marked success. The remedy, prepared under Mr. Wilson's personal supervision, also a yaluable pamphlet containing the original prescription, with full and explicit directions for preparation and use, together with a short history of his case, may be obtained of the following reliable Druggist in this State, viz: JOSEPH FLEMING, 84 Market street, Pittsburgh, sole agent for Western Pennsylvania. my9:7ss

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE!

Victim of debility, who is responsible for your feebleness? Not yourself, you will say, for you've done all you could to cure it. That's a mistake on your parts. You have'nt tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Gloomy dyspeptic, with an uneasy stomach and a world-weary face, of course you don't think yourself responsible for your own torments. But you are. It is easy to see from your condition that you have'nt tried HOSTETTERS BITTERS.

Bilious sufferer, it is not your fault, yet think, that your symptoms grow worse day by day. Sleep pid always to you and good. Very likely. But you can be brought round for all that. Why don't you try HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

Friend, on whom Fever and Ague alternately blow hot and cold, and whose brain seems to be burstiling at the slightest provocation, why will you do you assume the responsibility? O, no! You've taken piles of quinine, and all sorts of nauseous medicines. What could you do more? One thing more—the very thing that should have been emptied you from all the pangs that now rack you. You have never been HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Nervous invalid, what have you to say? You plead that you have taken all sorts of nostrums at the pharmacopœia. If they have done you no good, it is not your fault. You are not responsible. Wrong, all wrong. You have, in reality, nobody to blame but yourself. Why have'nt you tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

For all the above named complaints, the Bitters are absolute specifics.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle states, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. NEVIN, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called DOLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Mr. ANDERSON, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "it is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic affections of the mucous tissue of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism. It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and wolly sediment. It soothes the irritation, and gives tone to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for DOLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. REISER'S Great Medicine store, 140 Wood street. ap28

LYNCH LAW IN KENTUCKY.

The "Regulators" at Work.

MOB LAW RAMPANT.

From the Lexington, Kentucky, correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette we extract the following clear account of the recent operations of the so-called "Regulators" or "Sagge" men of Kentucky. The correspondent says:

It has long been known that there existed in various parts of Kentucky bodies of armed men styling themselves "Regulators." These men assume to usurp the place of the civil officers and courts for justice, and mete out punishments according to a code of their own, which they called "Lynch law." A few months ago a band of Regulators called the "Sagge Men" did great damage and committed a number of outrages near the line of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Another band have come out, robbed, murdered and maltreated a great many colored people living in Boon and the adjoining counties. Only a few weeks ago a body numbering from eighty to one hundred men shot and hung some six or eight persons in the neighborhood of Danville, Ky. Several citizens were notified to leave, or they would be summarily dealt with, and General Fry, Col. Goodloe, Hon. John Harlon, and other good and highly respectable citizens were compelled to fly from their homes to save their lives. Gen. Thomas suddenly bursts in large numbers of this mob to a stop by sending a company of soldiers to Danville, since which time all has been quiet in that vicinity. The people had began to hope that the lawless men who call themseves Regulators had given over their deeds of blood, and settled down into useful and peaceable citizens; but it appears their cessation from violence was only the calm which preceeds the storm.

THE NICHOLASVILLE MOB

On Saturday night, April 27th, 1867, a mob of some forty men gathered in the neighborhood of Nicholasville, Ky., and, at about two o'clock in the morning, marched in and took possession of the town, throwing out pickets on all the roads, and allowing no one to approach. The main body of the mob then surrounded the jail and demanded of the jailer the keys, which he at first refused to give them, but upon being assured that if he did not instantly surrender them he would be shot, he gave them the key to the outer door. They unlocked the passage gate and got into the body of the prison, but having neglected to get the small keys could not get into the cells where the prisoners were confined. Several men started back to find the jailer and secure the cell keys, but the man had escaped and they could not find him. After a fruitless search they returned with the news to their companions, who were awaiting them in the jail, when, procuring lights, they went to a cell in which a negro named Adam Smith was confined, and who, they said they were after. Unable to get at him they thrust the lights through the bars into the cell and then fired on him until he fell. There was another negro in the cell with Smith, but he escaped by standing close in the corner, so that the lights would not shine upon him. The mob did not know there was any one in the cell except Smith, or they certainly would have killed him. After shooting Smith, the mob drew in their pickets, mounted their horses and rode off into the country, some three miles, where a negro man named Bath, who had been shot in a fight with a white man, Crawl, was lying. Surrounding the house, they dragged Bath out of the bed in which he was lying, sick and weak from the loss of blood, and procuring a rope, hung him by the neck to a tree near by, after which they disbanded and returned to their homes.

CAUSE OF THE MOB.

A few days before the assembling of the mob, two dogs, belonging to Richard Crawl, white, and Adam Smith, colored, living near Nicholasville, had a fight, over the result of which Crawl and Smith quarreled, and Crawl getting the better of Smith, clubbed him severely. Smith, it is said, made some threats against Crawl, and both men armed themselves. Soon afterward Crawl met in a field with Smith, who was at work with the negro, Bath, mentioned above, and it is said the negroes attempted to get away, when Crawl halted them and ordered them to stop. Smith refused to leave Smith, which Bath declined to do, when Crawl drew a revolver and snapped it at Bath, who, not being armed, rushed upon Crawl and caught him, holding his arms tight against the body, and attempting to prevent Crawl from shooting him. Crawl snapped his revolver three or four times, when at last went off and shot Bath in the thigh, wounding him severely. Smith, who, during the struggle between Crawl and Bath, had stood by and looked on, seeing Bath fall, and no doubt thinking his turn would come next, drew his revolver, and taking deliberate aim, fired, the ball taking effect in Crawl's head, just over the eye, and killing him almost instantly. Smith then went and gave himself up to the civil authorities of Jessamine county, who confined him in the jail at Nicholasville, (the county seat,) where he was shot by a mob, as we have already related. The negro Bath, being too severely wounded to be moved at first, was taken to a house near by, where he was hung by the same mob that shot Smith on the night of the 27th of April. On the morning of the 28th the negro Smith, although mortally wounded, was found still alive and able to talk. He lingered along until night, when he died in great agony, but before breathing his last he identified and made oath to several persons who had done the shooting of him.

SHOOTING OF COL. RICE.

The affidavit made by Adam Smith before his death, and implicating a number of well known citizens, was submitted to the military authorities, and on the 29th Gen. R. E. Johnson, of the Freedmen's Bureau, at Lexington, Ky., to arrest all the persons concerned and forward them to Louisville, Ky., for examination and trial. Colonel James H. Rice, Asst. Sub. Asst. Commissioner, was sent with a party of United States soldiers to make the arrests. The Colonel, with a squad of eight or ten well mounted men, left Lexington soon after nightfall, on Friday, May 3d, and proceeded to the house of Mrs. Crawl, for the purpose of arresting her son Thomas, who was one of the men that shot Smith, and who is a brother of Richard Crawl, the man who was shot by Smith. Mrs. Crawl lives near the Lexington and Nicholasville turnpike, and about eight miles from Lexington. On approaching the house, Col. Rice halted and dismounted his command, as, while in advance from it, and, not dreaming of resistance, with two soldiers went up through the front yard, intending to knock at the door and demand admittance. The night was dark, no lights were to be seen in the house, and all was still as the grave. A watch-dog, aroused from his slumbers by the tramp of the soldiers, came first from his kennel, and barked furiously at the intruders. Col. Rice and the two soldiers, supposing the inmates of the house to be asleep, had approached to within a few feet of the door, when, suddenly as though, the darkness was lit up by the flash of muskotry, and from windows, roofs, and doors, came a dozen messengers of death. Col. Rice fell at the first fire, pierced by three balls, and one of the soldiers received a slight wound in the breast. Instantly all was excitement and confusion; the unwounded soldier of the two who were with the Colonel, opened fire with his revolver on the house, and his companions, who had been left in the rear, soon came charging up and joined him. Their first care was to convey away the bleeding and almost insensible Colonel, who lay helpless upon the ground, within a few yards of the deadly tubes which were still discharging their contents at him. Having safely deposited the Colonel in an ambulance near by, and ascertaining their comrade was only slightly wounded, they returned to the vicinity of the house and proposed to renew the fight. The Colonel, however, believing the party in the house too strong for him, and knowing he could not reach or discipline them, (the house being built of large logs,) directed the sergeant to withdraw his little party, and convey him to Nicholasville, four miles distant, where he could get medical attention, of which, in his present critical condition, he stood in need. This was a prudent move, as it was well known there was a band of mounted desperadoes ranking in the neighborhood and ready to pounce upon the ambulance and murder the Colonel if he went alone, while to divide his party was to imperil both, and render almost certain the defeat and perhaps death of those he left behind. On reaching Nicholasville, Colonel Rice's wounds were examined, and to the delight of his friends found, though severe, not mortal.

THE REGULATORS.

Two scouts who had been sent through to Nicholasville from Lexington, ascertained about three o'clock in the afternoon that preparations were being made to resist the United States troops, who were expected down that night. About dark some forty armed men were reported to be assembled in a barn near Nicholasville, and another small party was seen in the woods on the Keene road. At twelve o'clock, the night being quite dark, the scouts set out, intending to convey to Colonel Johnson command information of the whereabouts of the Regulators. They expected to find Colonel Johnson or his command on the Nicholasville pike about two o'clock, and set out on that road, it being the most direct route. They had not gone far before they suddenly came upon an armed man sitting in the road on a horse. The fellow seemed as much surprised as they did, nevertheless he challenged and began falling back slowly, when the confused voices of men, the tramp of horses and the rattle of arms, warned the scouts that they were upon a strong party of the enemy. Wheeling about, they fled, the Regulators pursuing for about a mile, and calling upon them to halt. After a parley, they took the dirt road, determining to go round the Regulators and to get on the pike in their rear; but they had proceeded only a few miles when they were again halted and compelled to turn back. Returning to Nicholasville they took the railroad track, and when out some two miles were challenged and fired upon. Striking out across the country, they endeavored to reach the Harrodsburg road, but knowing little of the locality, they soon got lost in the woods. After wandering around until nearly daylight, they found a negro man who volunteered to go back to Nicholasville. The negro informed them that ten men armed with shot guns, had been at his house about ten o'clock at night and said they were going over to Crawl's to fight the United States soldiers who were coming out to arrest somebody. After leaving the house they crossed into the Keene road, and went towards Nicholasville. Col. Johnson and his party remained all night in the vicinity of Crawl's, but finding no one they returned at daylight to Lexington. A messenger who went through from Lexington to Nicholasville about daylight over the same road on which the scouts were halted, found nobody on the road.

WHO THE REGULATORS ARE.

The Regulators, although generally composed of rough and violent men, are said to number in their ranks some of what are called the most respectable citizens in the State.

The Regulators claim that the neglect of the courts to properly punish murders, thieves and scoundrels of all kinds compelled them to band together and take the administration of the law into their own hands When we remember the great number of pardons that have been granted during the past year, and that scores of murderers and innumerable number of horse thieves and villians are at large in the State, we may well believe there was great cause of compaint; but those misguided men make a grave mistake when they suppose they can stop crimes by committing other crimes.

A Terrible Outrage.

Dr. Porter, who lives two miles from town, gave his colored servants permission to have a dancing party at his plantation, on Saturday night last. Nine white men, employees of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, hearing of the frolic, went out and found some twenty-five negroes assembled, twelve or fifteen of whom were females. After dancing some time with them, the whites drove the black men off, blew out the lights and ravished nearly every female in the house. One girl, about 12 years of age, they carried outside, and two of them had her while another commanded the hellish deed. She was violated by the whole gang in succession, and so badly injured that her life is now despaired of. One of the negro men ran to town for Dr. Porter, who, on going home, found the blacks had rallied, and, having armed themselves, meant fight. The doctor persuaded them to keep the peace and let the law deal with the demons. The citizens were aroused and all but two were captured. Some of them had borne good characters, have had a preliminary trial, and, in default of bail, are now confined in the county jail, which is guarded nightly by the citizens. One of the prisoners is of such desperate character as to justify his being chained on his back in his cell.

Old stocks have been almost entirely lost sight of during the past year, and people generally, have come to the conclusion that the less they have to do with them the better. Think of the once famous Columbia, which at one time sold up to one hundred dollars per share, now offering at six, while many others, too numerous to mention, have died long since. Triumph is now the most popular stock of that kind in this market, and should the oil market improve, the price of this stock, it is believed, will advance materially. Oil Basin, which will advance materially, is reported as having struck a hundred barrel well the other day, and it is also stated that the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Co. has struck a fifty barrel well.

—All banks of issue, both National and State, are taxed ten per cent. on any old State bank notes which they pay out. Such notes are the same in value as before the ten per cent. law went into effect. Atleast the banks that issue them are required to redeem them just as before. The law imposes the tax exclusively on the banks which may pay them out hereafter. The public have a right to refuse these notes, and should do so, accepting only greenbacks and National bank notes, that we may have the benefits of a uniform currency.

—The National bankrupt law will will go into effect on the first of June. In some respects, however, the law is retrospective; for it is provided, under sections 35 and 39, that transactions which may have taken place within four months next before the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy shall come within the jurisdiction of the court. According to the law, any preferences made to creditors since the 1st day of February are liable to be rendered null and void, provided proceedings be entered within four months from the date of such act of preference. The law also provides that if the creditor who accepts such preference has reason for believing that the security was given in anticipation of insolvency, he shall not only be required to surrender the security to the assignor, but shall forfeit his claim upon the bankrupt's estate. It is highly important that men of business should properly understand the liabilities under which they now place themselves in accepting or granting preference in the matter of debts. The whole force of the new law is directed against such transactions, and the severe penalties against its violators. There can be little doubt that, in the present disordered condition of trade and credit, an unusual amount of preferential transactions are taking place. The parties to such acts should understand that, unless they can be assured that no proceeding in bankruptcy will be undertaken within four months from the date of the transaction, they expose themselves to severe risks and penalties. Under the circumstances which in most cases attend the making of preferences to creditors, the operation will be regarded by the act as a fraud. The whole act is framed upon a more rigid construction of commercial equity and morality than is recognized in the existing commercial law of the States; and many of the transactions of insolvents which now are tolerated by society and allowed by the courts, will, under the new law, be found to expose the parties thereto to very unpleasant consequences.

—The New York Evening Post says: The failure was announced yesterday of one of the most extensive manipulators in Corydon mining shares in this city and in Franklin, Reynolds, Hancock, Huron, Coppor Falls, Hecla, etc., in Boston. At about three o'clock p. m. yesterday, at Boston, Mr. John Leighton, who operated on this case sued by New York creditors, and will be confined, awaiting a requisition from the Governor of New York. His failure is estimated at a million of dollars, one house having a claim against him of near $800,000, while his assets are inconsiderable.
